Staff writer

The Granite City Library District has a new director.
Lester McKlernan was hired by the library board at its May 10 meeting and began his duties here in mid-June.

"I may have come from Texas, but I didn't bring this weather with me," McKlernan said in reference to the sweltering heat that has prevailed since his arrival.

McKlernan, 51, takes over the job former director Bob Stack left more than a year ago.

McKlernan has 13 years of experience in public libraries from Fort Worth, Texas, to Quincy, III, including McAlester, Okla, and the has been getting acquainted with the local staff and has been impressed.

Prosecutors alleged that Lindsey shot Catlett in the back in 1990 hock of Weshington Avenue
after Catlett squealed the tires of his pickup truck while driving away from the house.

But Lindsey's attorney, Tom Hildebrand, said that hospital records revealed that Catlett told a doctor he had been shot earlier in the day. Hildebrand had been shot that the control of the control of charges of aggravated battery with a firearm and home inva-sion.

2 die in motorcycle crash

Two Highland residents were killed early Thursday when their motorcycle ran off Interstate 55/70 and crashed into a road sign near Collinsville.

Randall M. O'Brien, 38, of the 700 block of Pine Street, and Lisa K. Burgess, 29, of the 700 block of Eighth Street, were pronounced dead at 1:57 a.m. Thursday at the accident scene just north of Collinsville, Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said.

They both died of massive head injuries. Neither was wearing a helmet.

They both died of massive head injection motorcycle north about 1.

O'Brien was driving the Harley-Davidson motorcycle north about 1.

a.m. on 1-55/70 when he failed to negotiate a curve near U.S. 40, and hit the road sign, Burke said. She said the curve used to be known as Deadman's Curve.

Where Beautiful Things Begin

he decision to add trees to your land-scape can be a very scape can be a very important one. Trees that blend in well can be a real asset to your home. On the other hand, the wrong choice can be a detriment. Not too many people would like a huge, towering behemoth overpowering the house and everything around it. If it's shade you're after, you don't want a small tree that will stop growing at ten feet or so.

Trees come in many, many sizes and shapes. There's one in the Sequoia National Park in California that stands nearly 275 feet tall, with a truink that's 83 feet, 2 inches in circumference. It's estimated that five billion matches could be made from it. The tallest living tree today is one soaring 365 feet. That's well over half the height of the Gateway Arch.

Naturally, you won't be con-cerned with any of the above for your own landscape, but you get the idea. For now, here's a list of some common tree types and the heights they can be expected to attain. We hope it will give you a guideline to select the tree that will suit you best.

Some Tree Tidbits Legend says that when a tree is cut down, you can count the rings and tell the age of the tree. Any truth to it? You bet! One ring is produced each year.

Have you ever wondered how the height of a tree can be determined? There are two ways to do it. One is to climb the tree with a long tape. But since that can be quite hazardous to you, the tree, and anyone standing below, we don't recommend it. Following is a safer way, with no risk to life and limb.

Find the tree you'd like to measure. With a ruler, get to a distance from the tree that will permit you to hold the utler at arm's length and still, see the top and bottom of the tree within the ruler. Note the points on the ruler for the top and bottom of the tree. Within the ruler for the top and bottom of the tree. Now, measure the distance from your eye to the ruler at arm's. your eye to the ruler at arm's length.

Next, you'll need to know the distance between you and the tree. Walk towards it and try to pace the distance. It'll be approximate, of course, but close enough. When you reach the base of the tree, note the distance you covered and convert it to inches. inches.

Once you have all the figures, multiply the measurement on the ruler by the distance (in inches) from where you were to the base of the tree and divide this by the distance (in inches) from your eye to the ruler. Divide that by 12. The final figure is the approximate height of the tree, in feet.

and it's way too early for that," Briggs said.
But if it comes to that, he said, he will ask anyone interested in the position to apply at the board office either in person or by letter Briggs will then conduct interviews before naming the replacement.
"That's what I'll do if I have to. I hope they don't make me do that," Briggs said.
A special meeting of the board could be called by the president or any three members prior to the deadline.

Safety first — Left to right, Carland Whitworth, director of safety and education for the Southern Illinois Builders Association, explains safety procedures to Dave Clark, a laborer, and Danny Jones, a carpenter, during a recent safety presentation at American Steel Foundries. Clark and Jones were working on a job for C.D. Peters Construction Co. Whitworth travels to various construction sites in a 39-county area of Southern Illinois to present programs on safety topics. Topics vary from scaffolding safety to hard hats to electrical safety, depending on the site. He said the educational programs benefit workers by cutting down on injuries and also benefit management by reducing lost time, workers compensation claims and costly lawsuits.

Missionaries to speak at First Assembly today

Two missionaries from Africa will bring their story to a Granite City church this evening.

Ed and Sonja Corbin, will be the special speakers at First Assembly of God, located at 24th and Grand Avenue, in Granite City, at 6:30 p.m. today. The Corbins have been involved in full-time children's ministries for the past 20 years.

They have served as children's evangelists, children's pastors and produced and hosted their own children's television program, called "Toddler's Friends," which aired for several years across America.

Air Force next stop for well-traveled Barron

By Scott Marion Staff writer

Somehow, it's appropriate that Mike Barron will attend the Air Force Academy next year. After all, he's been flying to new places for much of his life.

After all, he's been trying to new places for much of his life.

"I WAS BORN in Johannesburg, South Africa, and lived there for six years," said Barron, a recent graduate of Belleville. West High School and a three-sport star for the Maroons. "Then I lived Miscons." Then I lived Miscons. before moying here. "I've always liked being able to travel around the world. It's kind of hard to move and leave your friends behind, but the experience you gain from it is great. "The same of the Year — inherited his globe-trotting ways and his love of sports from his parents. "My dad was born in London, and my morm was born in the Black Forest in Germany; they Cavaness had always been considered a scoring leader, but step further as a senior. Volley-ball season helped prepare Cavaness for just that.

For the second straight year, For the second straight play she weekled at the hitter position and was the center of Granite City's attack.

After the Lady Warriors ended the season in sectional play, Cavaness had just two days of rest before diving into the start of baskethall practice. Her season actually began over the summer, when she helped lead her AAU baskethall team to the national tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I think she's an asset to any Division I team, no matter what her role might be," Weller said.
"She always wants to work hard and make a name for herself. I think she'll be able to rise to the challenge."

Cavaness will leave behind huge shoes to fill at Granite City. For four straight years, she was a major contributor for of the school year.

"She was a good leader for us," Weller said. "It's going to be tough to develop a team that replaces the things she did."
